URGENT PLEA FOR DEFENSE

President, in Fighting Mood, Begins His Appeal to Nation

UTTERS HIS WARNING

Executive Says He Considers Liberty and Honor of Country Even More Than Peace.

New York, Jan. 28—President Wilson last night launched forth upon his national campaign for preparedness. His first speech to the business men of America was made at the seventh annual dinner of the Railway Business Association at the Waldorf Astoria.

Twelve hundred and fifty men heard that opening speech. They represented the greatest railroads in the East and the largest railroad supply cities. When the President had finished, he was escorted to the Biltmore Hotel, where he addressed the Motion Picture Board of Trade. His escort was the Ninth Regiment Coast Artillery, N. G. N. Y.

Every reference the President made to national defense was warmly applauded. Once and only once, at the dinner at the Waldorf, he referred to his Mexican policy. The 1,250 men who had showed their approval of an adequate national defense, sat quiet. The President said that there would not be intervention in Mexico because of the example such an action would set. Such was the silence that greeted this remark that the President shifted swiftly and thereafter eschewed the apparently unpopular topic.

For some reason the President ignored the speech he had prepared for the occasion. He dealt with the question of defense merely in a general way. Virtually every reference he made to national defense was tempered with modification. Mrs. Wilson occupied a box and was cheered when she entered.

Once the President declared that one year ago he didn't believe in a tariff board. Before he was able to say that he now saw virtue in such a body, the railroad men burst into a roar of approval. But on the contrary when the President declared that he would rather surrender territory than ideal, there was a mere scattering of applause.

As for the navy he declared that needed no preaching. The navy, he said, was so obviously a necessary branch of defense that its expansion would require but little urging. He declared he did not fear for the naval program. His fears, he intimated, centered in his plan to enlarge our land forces.

Washington, Jan. 28—Having sounded a clarion call for preparedness in the opening speeches of his campaign in behalf o fthe Administration's national defense program, President Wilson returned to Washington today eager and ready for his swing through the Middle West.

Unexhausted by a strenuous day spent in New York yesterday, where he addressed three gatherings, the President worked rapidly today clearing up official business preparatory to leaving tonight for Pittsburgh. Within the coming week he will speak at Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Milwaukee, Chicago, Des Moines, Topeka, Kansas City and St. Louis, not to mention brief stops all along the road for rear platform addresses.

Mrs. Wilson, who accompanied the President to New York will be with him on the Middle Western trip.

IIN MEMORIAM.

WINKFIELD — In sad but loving rememberance of our dear wife and mother, Louisa E. Winkfield, who departed this life five years ago today, January 28, 1911.

Home is sad, Oh God, how dreary;
Lonesome, lonesome, every spot;
Listening for her voice till weary.
weary; for we hear it not.
We shall never cease to love her
Though her form is in the dust,
And some day we hope to meet her,
To this end in God we trust.

TWO PERSONS KILLED.

Engine Topples Over After Crash at Crossing and Drops Down Embankment.

Lakewood, N. J. Jan. 28.—Two persons were killed and one other probably mortally injured when the Philadelphia Long Branch express, on the Pennsylvania Railroad, struck the automobile of Dr. A. S. Higgins, of Manasquan, at Allenwood station, early last night. The force of the collision derailed the engine and toppled it and one coach down a 10 foot embankment.

Thomas Berrien, of Long Branch, engineer of the train, was killed and Dr. Higgins died in the Anna May Hospital, Spring Lake. His wife is so badly hurt that she too may die.

The crash occurred on the crossing just east of the Allenwood station. The flyer did not stop at the station and was running at high speed. Dr. Higgins did not notice the approach of the train and was on the middle of the track when it struck his car. The car was demolished and the occupants flung far to one side. They were picked up unconscious and rushed by another car to the hospital, six miles away.

After hitting the automobile the train under its own momentum ran nearly a quarter of a mile. It is though the force of the collision derailed the wheels of the pilot, and at the next crossing struck the planking, causing the engine to leave the rails. There is a 10 foot embankment on either side of the track and the engine toppled over, pinning down and instantly killing the engineer. The first coach did not turn over, but was up-ended on the bank. The fireman was uninjured, except a few bruises. No one else was injured.

MAN AND WIFE FLEECED.

Forced Into Bankruptcy by Treachery of Woman.

William I McCauley and Henrietta McCauley, trading as the "Leader" a notions store at No. 2515 Washington avenue, Newport News, Va., filed in the United States District Court several days ago a petition in voluntary bankruptcy. The McCauleys were an industrious cople and patrons of their thriving establishment were surprised to hear of their failure.

The McCauleys were not unfortunate, however, in their business venture, it has developed, but short-sighted in their charity, being forced to the wall by their generosity to an aged, crippled woman, who fleeced them out of $500, This, it is said in Newport News, is what was direct cause of the McCauleys' financial downfall and distress.

A woman representing herself to be a wealthy woman of Miami, Fla., but temporarily embarrassed financially, called at the "Leader" the first part of December and was taken into bosoms of the McCauley family who clothed, fed and otherwise nourished and comforted her to the extent of $250.

Her first visit was occasioned, she told the McCauleys, by the larceny of her pocket book, and $150 en route to Canada. The McCauleys were so nice to her that during the days preceding Christmas that the rich and beneficent old lady promised them wealth galore and made them principal beneficaries of her estate of $70,000 in a new will, that showed her skillful operations at their best.

And having "fixed" the McCauleys for life, and obtained traveling expenses and other incidentals totaling $500, the old lady took her departure December 19. Tidings of her were received from Richmond, Petersburg, and finally from Jacksonville, December 21. And that was the last word. The McCauleys are still looking for her and so are the police since information from Miami states that the crippled and generous old lady is well known in that city for similar operations there last year. The McCauleys are broken both at the heart and pocketbook, and their notion business is in the hands of the Federal Court.

REPORT NEXT SESSION

Republicans Offer Measure For Election of Corporation Commission by The People.

Richmond, Va., Jan. 28.—The stephens antigambling bill, making in unlawful for any person to bet, wager or play at any game for money was passed in the House yesterday by the vote of 48 to 14, without debate. Violations of the act is a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of $20 and imprisonment or both.

Both branches concurred in a resolution offered by Delegate Willis, for the appointment of a joint committee of two from the House and one from the SeSnate to consider the subject of rural credits and report at the next session.

The Republican members are endeavoring to get all officers elected by the people and yesterday, Minority Leader M. K. Lowry, offered a bill, of which R. Lindsay Gordon is co. patron, for the election of members of the State Corporation Commission by the people.

Other new bills authorize the City Council of Newport News, to issue $130,000 in bonds for school purposes; permit cities of the first class to provide for pensions for members of fire departments; eliminates the office of city collector in Norfolk, and places duties of that office on the city treasurer, and for the sterilization of certain prisoners.

The House passed bills to prohibit division of fees between physicians and surgeons and providing for pensioning of police by cities of the first class.

While the prohibition bill, prepared by advocates of the Anti-saloon League measures, will not be completed before today, it is reported that all breweries and wine pressess in Virginia will be put out of business; no man may buy more than one quart of whisky a month; nor have in his possession more than one gallon of whisky at any one time. Senator Mapp is in conference on the measure, which will be printed on the Senate calendar before it is introduced in the House.

BOY KILLED BY TRUCK.

Crushed under a truck carrying 5 tons of coal, James Higgs, aged 12, died in Casualty Hospital in Washington last night, less than two hours after he had been injured. The boy's head was fractured and the right side of his body mangled by the heavily loaded automobile. Young Higgs, son of James C. Higgs, an insurance agent, was roller skating with several companions in Virginia avenue southeast when the coal truck, rolled by in an easterly direction. Higgs and his friends caught hold of the automobile, at about Fifth street, Near Sixth street, one of the boys held out a stick to Higgs, who let go his hold on the end gate and was dragged up towards the driver's seat. Between the front and rear wheels, the youth's grasp on the stick slipped and he stumbled and fell. The boy screamed and his friends cried out. The driver stopped the truck and ran back to the injured youth. He was hurried to the hospital but he died in about an hour.

MRS. MOHR BARES PAST

Providence, R. I., Jan. 28—The first serious break in the marital relations of the late Dr. C. Franklin Mohr and his wife, Elizabeth F. Mohr, who is charged with having hired two negroes to kill him, occurred at the time she told her husband of her friendship for a man named Samuel A. McDougall, who is now a minister in Pictou, Nova Scotia.

This statement was elicited from Mrs Mohr, during severe cross-examination yesterday afternoon by Attorney-General Rice, Step by step the prosecuting attorney brought out the details of Mrs. Mohr's life. Occasionally during the examination she seemed confused as to dates and facts given in her direct testimony, and several times she broke down and sobbed.

It was in 1912 she said, that she first told Dr. Mohr about McDougall The doctor, she admitted, was incensed and went to Nova Scotia to try to have the minister unfrocked, The Attorney General then reminded her that in her direct testimony she had said that her husband had gone "to the provinces to see a friend."

"The doctor was under the influence of drugs," said Mrs. Mohr. "He asked me if preferred McDougall to him, and I told him that the way he was acting I thought McDougall would have been better, as he didn't touch liquor."

At the time she met McDougall, Mrs. Mohr said, she was known as Elizabeth Blair. She denied that she told the Doctor she had left Providence to go to Boston because of notoriety caused by her friendship with McDougall. She could not keep company with McDougall, she said, because the differences in their religious beliefs made it impossible for her to become a minister's wife.

It was about the time she told the Doctor of McDougall, the Attorney-General brought out, that Mrs. Mohr and her husband had a falling out, and that he began to correspond with Miss Emily Burger, who later became his secretary, and who was seriously wounded when the Doctor was shot down in their stalled automobile.

Mrs. Mohr admitted that "she was fooled" about her first marriage with the Doctor in Brooklyn, but that she relied on the word of the Doctor and took no other precautions.

She denied that she had lived with the Doctor a year and a half before their marriage. When the Doctor told her, she said, that she would have her, trouble in proving that they were legally married, as she could not produce the certificate and that the man who performed the ceremony was dead, she decided not to live with him another day until there was another ceremony.

Her family had objected to her going with Dr. Mohr, she said, because he was a divorced man, but she had supposed that his first wife had died 13 years ago.

When asked where she really went through a ceremony Mrs. Mohr began to sob and could not answer for some time. She then said it was at Lynn, Mass., on May 24, 1909, the Doctor having thought it best on account of the children. She admitted, however, that the residence and occupation of both herself and the Doctor as given on the records in Lynn were false.

WOMAN COLLEGE BILL DISCUSSED

Opposition Develops to Plan For Co-ordinate Institution

ALDERMAN FAVORS IT

Says Establishment Outside of University of Virginia Would Be Severe Blow to its Interests.

Richmond, Jan. 28—In establishing a co-ordinate college for women under the auspices of the University of Virginia, the usefulness of the State's premier institution of learning in laying the broad foundation for intelligent participation in the social life of the State would, in the opinion of Dr. Edwin A. Alderman president of the university, who addressed the joint committees on Education of the General Assembly yesterday at a public hearing on the co-ordinate college bill, increase the usefulness of the university a hundredfold.

Advocates of the measure, intended to secure to the women of the State equal opportunity with the men of receiving training in a higher institution of learning supported by State funds, are besieging the Legislature for the third time in the interest of having established a woman's college, co-ordinate with the University of Virginia. The Committee yesterday gave six hours to a full discussion of the question, adjourning last night at 12 o'clock. No action was taken.

Bitter opposition to the measure, as not conductive to the best interests of the State and its public school system and as out of keeping with the best policy in the education of women, has developed, just as in former years, and a formidable array of talent appeared against the passage of the measure last night. Rosewell Page Second Auditor, was in charge of the proponents, while Henry Taylor marshaled the forces of the opposition.

Dr. Alderman, who led off for the bill in the fight before the committee, was emphatic in his belief that the time has come for securing to the women of the State an opportunity to share with the men in the educational advantages offered by the State university.

"Co-operation," said Dr. Alderman, "is the masterword of our time. We can no longer pursue the policy of restricted effort. A new human type—the trained, efficient woman, actively engaged, side by side with the man, in solving the social and economic problems that come into the life of a broad democracy—is with us in this twenty century.

"There are going to be women leaders. We must provide means whereby they may secure training equal to that of the men who will mould the history of the nation."

R. C. Stearnes, Superintendent of Public Instruction, urged the passage of the bill in the interests of the public school system of Virginia. The efficiency of the whole system, he said, centered around the high schools of the State, where the boys and girls receive training at the most critical period of their life. Nothing can be more important, said Mr. Stearnes, than that these schools should secure the very best teachers possible, and there is only one source of supply—the standard college. The high school teachers of thirty States in the Union he said, are trained at State universities.

Students of the university are overwhelmingly opposed to the bill, and assert that, should it pass, and the coordinate college is established, it will mean a material falling off in the institution's enrollment.

DANGEROUS PLAYTHINGS

People living on Queen street, between St. Asaph and Pitt, are complaining of the small boy and his rifle. A number of windows have been broken and other damage done by these dangerous playthings. Cats at times afford targets for the youngsters and one was killed recently. LONDON BANKERS MEET.

All Optimistic But Realize Necessity of Economy.

London, Jan. 28.—At the annual meetings of eight important banks, yesterday, the financial situation was reviewed by the nation's leading authorities. All were optimistic, but all emphasized the necessity of economy, both public and private.

Of the various utterances, Lord Inchcape's carry the most weight for he is a commercial as well as a financial authority, being a great ship owner, head of the Peninsular & Oriental and other lines, an insurance director and a director of the Suez Canal. He said:

"Germany is already beaten irretrievably, and she knows it. Her losses in men and material are stupendous. She is eating herself up—blazing away her resources and soldiers on impregnable lines.

"Our present taxation is now bringing in 400,000,000 pounds sterling, ($2,000,000,000), annually. We shall probably have to provide another 200,000,000 pounds annually by taxes or reduction of private and public expenditures.

"The standard of living must go down. The nation must work harder and spend less."

CAR OF POWDER BLOWN UP.

Several People Hurt and Much Damage to Property in Bluefield.

Bluefield, W. Va., Jan. 28.— Several people were hurt, including Conductor W. F. Francis and Charles Aker, brakeman, several thousand dollars worth of damage to property and several cars of merchandise destroyed by fire when a car loaded with black powder blew up in the Norfolk and Western yards here early Wednesday night. The explosion occurred one and a half miles from the business section of the city and while the cars were still burning there were three solid carloads of high per cent dynamite hitched to them. Excitement was high, fearing another explosion. Had the dynamite exploded at the same time the powder did, Bluefield's death toll would have been appalling. As it was plate glass was shattered and buildings rocked on their foundations. The cause of the fire was unknown.

WANTS BUSINESS MAN FOR SENATE

C. Bascombe Slemp Declares His Party Ready to Support Such

AVERSE TO SWANSON

Wants Candidate Who is Not Prominently Connected With Either Party Organization.

Washington, Jan. 28.—Representative Bascom Slemp, Republican leader of Virginia, who has been mentioned as a possible republican candidate for the Senate against Senator Swanson, in a statement to a correspondent last night, declared that the Republican party stands ready to support, an independent Democrat for the Senate, a man who is not prominently connected with either the Republican or Democratic party organizations, but who is a strong business man. Mr. Slemp left the impression that he himself will not be a candidate for the Senate.

In this regard it is known that Mr. Slemp has made the suggestion of an independent man for the Senate to prominent "antiorganization" leaders. He has stated that the Republicans stand ready to give this candidate 50,000 votes, and if there are 100 independent Democrats in each county to be added to this vote, Senator Swanson can be defeated.

Mr. Slemp's statement is as follows:

"I appreciate very much the suggestion that has come to me from a good many sources to make the race for the United States senatorship this fall.

"This suggestion, I realize, was somewhat incidentally made, and really is part of a general protest against the Democratic leadership in the State of Virginia.

"I have no doubt that a good, strong man representing the business interests of the State of Virginia and running on a platform favorable to its development would get majority of the votes of the state. Whether they would be counted for such a candidate even if cast, I somewhat doubt, I suspect that the reluctance that seems to attend entrance into the Democratic primary contest is due to fear that honest treatment will not be accorded at the polls.

"Under these circumstances. I feel that the kind of man to nominate is one not connected with either party organization in the State, but a good strong business man, who will get the Republican vote of the State and the independent Democratic vote. There are a number of such men in the State, and the people ought to demand their making a contest.

"I would favor an independent Democrat, indorsed by the Republicans. The Republican vote in the State will be between 50,000 and 60,000. To carry the State, such a candidate would only have to get about 12,500 former Democratic votes, which would be about 100 votes to each county and city in the State. With any reasonable organization and some newspaper influence, this should be comparatively simple."

TO TAKE OVER ARMORY

City Council Will Assume Debts of Home of Alexandria Light Infantry.

Mayor Thomas A. Fisher has signed the resolution passed at the last meeting of city council providing for the taking over by the city of the armory of the Alexandria Light Infantry on Royal street, between Prince and Duke streets, and in accordance with the provisions of the resolution the finance committee is preparing to complete the transaction. They have engaged Attorney Robinson Moncure to examine the title and prepare the papers transferring the property to the city. As soon as Mr. Moncure examines the title to the property he will prepare a deed which must be signed individually by each member of the company.

The city is to assume the debts of the company not to exceed $3,600. There is a mortgage of $2,500 with accrued interest and in addition a floating indebtness of about $900. It will be necessary for the company to secured sworn accounts of those to whom they owe money. These account will be secured by Capt. W. M. King

It is expected that as soon as the city secures title to the building an appropriation will be made for its improvement. A new roof, which will cost between $500 and $600, is badly needed.

SPRING FEVER VICTIMS

Mild Weather of Past Few Days Phenomenal in This Section of Country.

The weather during the present week has been suggestive of that of April instead of January. In many cases fires in houses have been found uncomfortable, while heavy clothing, in season a few days ago, has proven wearisome to the flesh. The south wind has blown softly, birds have chiped and buds have appeared to be swelling. While all these things may not be portentious of an eurselydon, as was the case in a voyage described in holy writ, it may be stated more seasonable weather is in transitu, and warm houses will again be enjoyed before the advent of next week. The giants will again emerge from their caves and expand their lungs upon conch shells which will cause a decided tumble in the mercury.

The present unseasonable weather which has prevailed this week has brought its usual tide of woes. It caused sporadic cases of spring fever and augmented the cases of grip in this city. During January and February this malady is generally widespread. In some cases it is in the nature of mild influenza which passes away in a few days. In other instances, however, it is protracted, and some of the victims fail to shake it off until after the vernal equinox.

KNIGHTS AND LADIES

Annual Banquet of Maccabees at Westminster Building Last Night

The annual banquet of the Sir Knights and Ladies of the Maccabees, held in the Westminster Building last night, was a delightful affair.

The guests, numbering a hundred and twenty-five, were seated at long tables tastefully decorated, with red and white carnations, the Maccabees colors, The banquet served by the Presbyterian ladies, consisted of fried oysters, turkey, old Virginia Ham, and other delicacies was much enjoyed.

At the table, at the upper end of the room, was seated the guests of honor and the speakers. The invocation was pronounced by Rev. O. W. Triplett, pastor of the Second Baptist Church. Sir Knight E. V. Regester, was toast-master.

The toast "Our Order," was responded to by State Commander, John J. Dozier, of Norfolk, who told of the ideals and progress of the order and its accomplishments for the preservation of the home and predicted a bright future for its work.

This was followed by an address on "Co-operation of Women," by Mrs. Mabel La Rue, Lady Commander of the District of Columbia, who pictured the remarkable growth and development of the Lady Maccabees, stating that it was the largest fraternal organization, as well as the largest commercial organization in the world, managed exclusively by women, at the present time there being over nine millions of dollars in the reserve fund. Although this fund had been established a number of years ago not a single cent had been lost through any unfortunate investment or the dishonesty of any employee or any officer. This record is almost without parallel in the annals of business corporations. Mrs. La Rue charmed all b yher witty and far reaching exposition of the work of the order.

The toast "Fraternity," was responded to by D. Edward Clark, formerly of King George County, Virginia, now an attorney of Washington and recently elected Commander of the District of Columbia, who with great eloquence told of the power wrapped up in the thought of Fraternity.

"The Solidarity of Womanhood" was responded to by Mrs. Kate Waller Barrett who called the attention of the audience to the fact that such a gathering as this denoted the great changes that had taken place in the state of womanhood, that men and women should be uniting their efforts in such a movement as this. The solidarity of the race while based on the solidarity of womanhood, was much higher than sex solidarity.

Mr. W. N. Newbold, who was to have given the response to the closing toast was unavoidably detained and his place was taken by Mr. C .Ashby Bladen, commander of the Local Tent. Mrs. Sadie Quigley commander of the Local Hive presided and welcomed the guests.

The speeches were interspersed with a delightfully rendered musical program. Miss Anna Vierkorn and Mr. Albert Lang being the soloists. Mr Lang's patriotic song, "I Love the Whole U. S." elicted much appiause. A musical program was also rendered by the Maccabees Orchestra.

PRACTICAL ADMONITION.

A New York judge has shown to be wise in his day and generation. The example of this jurist might be followed with profit by others who are prone to allow young and thoughtless persons to institute divorce proceedings upon every little pretext. Most of the actions for severance of martial ties are brought by young people, who strangely imagine that is the only way to settle minor variations. The following should be read closely by all who may be contemplating airing their marital troubles in courts.

A husband is still the master of his family and his wife is expected to obey him, according to the views of Supreme Court Justice Hotchkiss of New Yor, expressed after he had listened for several hours to the tale of marital woe told by Mrs. Beatrice Finklestein and her husband, Nathan, each of whom wants a separation for cruelty. When counsel for Mrs. Finklestein asked the court for permission to file a brief before the case was decided Justice Hotchkiss said:

"It is advice, not briefs, that this young couple need. Here is a young couple 23 years of age, both of them happy until there comes a temperamental clash. Neither of them seem to have the reserve, poise and self control to manage their own tempers. The result is a clash, and then comes a quarrel.

"The plaintiff is a young woman of high and independent spirit. I have no doubt that her husband is a man of high temper, but he never hit his wife. This has simply been a bad exhibition of temper on both sides. It is a thing that grows on what it feeds on and from small beginnings grows to very bad endings. I have lived in this world long enough to know that if people situated as these young people evidently are situated, instead of reconciling their troubles by the exercise of that self restraint which prudence demands, are going to rush off to divorce courts, marriage will be more of a failure than it is.

I am going to dismiss this complaint and ask these parties to accept the advice of one who has lived longer than they have. Let this young women obey the commandment to obey her husband; to endeavor to recognize him as the master of the family and the head of the family within reason, and not look for comfort and solace and indorsement of all her wilfulness from members of her own family.

Let the husband restrain his temper; let him remember that there is no partnership that is ever a success until the parties to it subordinate their own will to the necessities of their own situation.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The Legislature, as is usual at its biennial sessions, is dragging its slow length along. Much of the time alloted for work has already passed, and the snail pace at which the bodies are moving in considering important matters is causing impatience. A few years ago the Code of Virginia consisted of but one volume. It now requires three bulky books to set forth all the statutes, and the work is being augmented all the time.

In this connection the Norfolk Ledger Dispatch says it is true that about one-fourth the session the legislature has passed, and to the general public but little seems to have been accomplished, but we can see in this fact no argument for a 90 day's session.

While something of moment has been accomplished much of the time has been wasted upon matters that certainly do not appeal for an extension of the session to 90 days. The lobbying and log-rolling for the Supreme Court and other offices occupied days, in which the House and Senate practically held no sessions.

Again, this session of the legislature differs from any previous ones in that its attention seems to be rivetted upon the regulation of the personal affairs of the people rather than upon matters of State. Instead of a law allowing home rule to the cities, and permitteing them to conduct their own affairs, the vast preponderence of country members seem bent on regulating the internal workings "of cities of over 15,000 population," of which there are seven or eight in the State.

The solicitude of the country members for the appointment of policewomen in cities of over 15,000 is a fine argument for a 90 days' session, and the unsatisfied discussion of the "moral welfare" of cities suggests that some of the sturdy yeomen attend the State Fair every few years.

The main trouble seems to be that the legislature is obsessed with the notion that the regulation of all things earthly is committed to its hands, and instead of directing its attention to material state matters, it flounders around in rapid discussion of affairs not State-wide in their scope.

THE PRESIDENT'S PERSONAL APPEAL.

President Wilson opened his personal appeal to the country for national defense in New York Last night.

He gave warning that plans for the readjustment of the army must be formulated and carried out without delay, and solemnly declared he could not predict that the outlook for the United States would be as bright tomorrow as today.

Mr. Wilson was in a fighting mood throughout his address. In a speech delivered early in the day he declared he always accepted an invitation to fight. At night he told the Railway Business Association and the Motion Picture Board of Trade that he was an advocate of peace and had struggled to keep the United States at peace, but he considered the liberty and honor of the nation even more important than peace.

"Woe to any man who plays marplot or who seeks to make party politics or personal ambition take precedence over candor, honor and unselfish, unpartisan service!" said the President. He declared that the country expects action; this is a year of accounting, and the accounting must be definite on the part of parties and on the part of every individual who wishes to enjoy the public confidence.

The applause received by the President showed the representative people of the country are with him in his preparedness propaganda.

Since the United States had made it undesirable for the Japanese to get a footing in this hemisphere, he thought the United States should be willing to keep out of the Asiatic countries.

RABIES IN VIRGINIA

Patients Now Under Treatment by State From Widely Different Localities.

Richmond, Jan. 28. — The arrival at the State laboratory of a patient from Petersburg to take the anti-rabic treatment increases to six the number now under treatment and raises to a like number the districts from which rabies have recently been reported.

The cases now under treatment are said by officers of the State Board of Health to illustrate very clearly the ease with which rabies is spread when precautions against it are not taken. Each case has what officers describe as a "typical history."

One patient is from a party moving southward by wagon, carrying a collie dog with them. The dog grew sick, developed symptoms of madness, bit one of the party and then disappeared. His body was not recovered nor was it known how many other animals, if any, were bitten by him.

Another patient from the vicinity of Fredericksburg was likewise the victim of her own dog under unusual circumstances. The family in question, it appears, lived in a tent and had two dogs of their own—one a small lap-dog and the other a giant greyhound. One night the family was aroused by the presence in the tent of a strange dog which attempted to bit the lap dog. The man of the family at once set the grey-hound on the intruder and had the hound hold the strange dog until he could leave the tent and kill it. The grey-hound did his duty but was evidently bitten in the fight. Thirty days afterwards, while being fed, it snapped at the woman of the family and showed signs of distress. It was killed and found to be suffering from hydrophobia.

A third case was bitten by a cat which contracted the disease in a manner that could not be determined; a fourth was bitten by a collie which likewise was not suspected of being mad.

Still another patient was bitten by a rabid animal in a most unusual manner. The patient was working at night in a powerplant on the southside when he was suddenly attacked by a bull-dog. The animal seized the hands of the man before the latter could arm himself and inflicted painful injuries. The man at length had to strangle the animal and throw him in a stream to be rid of him. The body of the dog was not recovered but the symptoms were so typical that anti-rabic treatment was deemed necessary.

"All the cases," says the board in its weekly bulletin today, "Illustrate once more the truth we have emphasized again and again. Animals that show signs of suspicious sickness should be securely chained until the nature of their complaint is certain. If this is done in every instance, rabid animals will not get at large."

Former Premier Hopes for Union of States From Stockholm to Bagdad.

Berlin, Jan. 28.—Among the news items given out by the Overseas News Agency for transmission abroad is the following:

"The Neue Freie Prese of Vienna today publishes an interview with P. P. Carp, a former prime minister of Roumania, who is now visiting the Austrian capital.

"The ex-premier stated that Roumania never would side with the entente powers and that he even considered Roumania's neutrality was dangerous for her future. He expressed the hope that the central powers would soon expel the undersirable guests from Greece.

"Mr. Carp expressed the opinion that the future task of the central powers would be the creation of a block of United States from Stockholm to England, and he said he hoped Roumania would be included in this union."

King Constantine Advised to Place Himself Under German Protection

Paris Jan. 27—A dispatch to the Temps from Saloniki says that German agents at Athens have informed King Constantine that he is liable to be attacked by the allies.

They have advised him to flee and place himself under German protection. The king has refused, says the correspondent.

Amsterdam, Jan. 27—The serious state of affairs at Athens was emphasized by a Budapest dispatch to the Berlin Lokal Anzeiger yesterday, reporting that M. Gounaris probably will succeed M. Skoloudis as prime minister.

The present premier recently offered his resignation on account of advanced age, but was inducing to reconsider it. The approaching crisis in Greek affairs is reported to have convinced King Constantine that he must have an energetic man like Gounaris, the neutrality party leader, at the helm.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. They are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. His efforts to banish it brought out these little olive-colored tablets.

These pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids.

It is best not to take calomel, but to let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Most headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "loggy" and "heavy." Note how they "clear" clouded brain and how they "perk up" the spirits. At 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

ANOTHER WONDERFUL RECOVERY FROM KIDNEY TROUBLE.

For nearly nine years I was a great sufferer from what my doctor said was Kidney trouble and my blood was out of order; enduring all that time excruciating pain in my back and across my bowels. I was drawn down so that I could only walk with my hands on my knees. My doctor said he could do nothing for me. I tried many kinds of medicine but all to no avail. A friend told me about Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and as I had tried everything else that I heard of, I bought a bottle of Swamp-Root, and it did wonders for me. I prize it higher than any other medicine and I shall recommend it to my friends. I wish to add right here that after using Swamp-Root for two months I began to straighten up and am now sound and well, and feel like I might live a long time yet to tell what your medicine has done for me.

Yours very truly,
T. C. CLAY,

State of Ohio,
Marion County.

Personally appeared before me this 19th day of December, A. D., 1914, T. C. Clay, who subscribed to the above statement and made oath that the same is true in substance and in fact.
